PARTICIPATION IN ITAC NON-LIVE MARKET DATA USER ACCEPTANCE TESTING

Further to Service Hotline 264/2017 issued 22 December 2017, in which the JSE notified Information Subscribers about the establishment of a Non-Live Market Data User Acceptance Test environment (NLMD UAT). This environment is to assist subscribers to test their access to the relevant new data records via client specific data files via the JSE's production Information Delivery Portal (IDP).

The NLMD UAT environment will closely mirror the way that subscribers will access the data in production and will especially benefit new subscribers to familiarise themselves with the production service. Distinct test folders and data files will be created to ensure no confusion between current production files versus the ITaC test data files.

The NLMD UAT environment will be available to subscribers from Monday, 12 March 2018 through to Friday, 20 April 2018. We encourage all subscribers to take advantage of this opportunity to test with us to ensure their readiness for go live of ITaC.

If you have not yet requested access to participate or if you still have not confirmed which EDM and/or FXM data records you want to subscribe to (as this is required by the JSE for setup purposes) please notify MDProjects@jse.co.za as soon as possible. Should you not confirm your preferred subscriptions, you will be enabled by default to receive all data records for both markets.

The following new documents are provided to support subscribers that will be participating in the UAT. The documents will also be found on the JSE ITaC on the JSE website under the Non-Live Market Data section.
