DELAYS TO JSE END OF DAY MARKET DATA PRODUCTS ON FRIDAY, 19 MARCH AND SATURDAY, 20 MARCH 2021

Clients are advised that the standard FTSE/JSE Africa Index Series - Quarterly Review will be taking place this Friday, 19 March 2021 after market close.

As per standard process, a number of changes have to be applied before FTSE Russell produce the data files that are the source for the JSE's FTSE/JSE Indices End of Day market data products. The JSE then has to do a thorough check before we produce the market data products that we make available to you.

In addition, on Friday evening we will start preparation and deployment activities required for the implementation of the new ICB changes that come into effect on Tuesday, 23 March 2021.

We therefore anticipate a delay in the delivery of certain end of day products on Friday evening and Saturday morning because of the above activities. Kindly therefore advise your support and stand-by teams of the anticipated delays and potential missed SLA's for end of day products on these days.

Clients will be able to monitor the status and progress of the Indices Review and ICB deployment activities at the following URL link:
