JSE TRADING AND INFORMATION SYSTEM UPGRADE – RELEASE 7.5

Further to Service Hotline 063/2023 published on 5 May 2023, the JSE would like to communicate that MIT release 7.5 to the Equity, Equity Derivative and Currency Derivative Markets will go-live on Monday, 29 May 2023.

This release has no API changes and therefore does not require mandatory conformance testing.

Please take note of the following inclusions to the release as well as some bug fixes:

1. Suspension Across Order Books (impacts all markets)
 - This is new functionality to ensure that the suspension of an instrument from the normal order book cascades to all books
 - Process changes internal to JSE
 - Testing is encouraged
2. Restrictions on User Created Option (Impacts all markets)
 - Not all instruments should have Options traded on them. This functionality will ensure that Options created on instruments are valid before they enter the trading engine
 - Process changes internal to JSE
 - Testing is encouraged

For detailed information pertaining to this release, please refer to the JSE Trading Release Documents available on the JSE website under “Next Functional Release” in the “Services Documentation” section at the following link:
