

JSE AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS MARKET NOTICE

Number A713

Date 29 September 2006

Changes to Appendix D – requirements for approved silos

It was agreed at yesterday's APD advisory meeting to further define the process with regards to the registration of individual silos. Currently if the silo operator is already registered with the exchange and would like to register additional delivery points (silos), provided the silos meet the requirements as defined in Appendix D they are added immediately. In future any request by a silo operator to register an additional silo for a specific product will be distributed to the market for comment. Members of the APD with existing long positions will be afforded 15 business days to lodge any objections to the intended registration, a similar process that is followed with any new silo operators seeking approval.

Should any objections be received the final decision to register the silo will rest with the JSE.

The JSE will publish its decision relating to the intended registration by official notice to the applicant and APD members.
